

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A bird feeder includes a hopper having a transparent shell with a spiral internal divider which forms segregated spiral compartments to feed a plurality of different types of bird food. A coupler having segregated vertical chambers, each aligned with an exit end of each segregated spiral compartment, directs the bird food from the hopper to separate feed openings. A seed catcher is attached underneath the coupler and a domed cap covers the top of the hopper.